Louisville Manufactures-Planing Mills. Having published brief accounts of the lnm ber yards and saw mills of the city, we have next to notice the planing mills, erected for dressing and manufacturing lumber. The oldest mill in the city is that of Mr. James Itwin, at the corner of Washington and Clay streets. It was formerly occupied, and we believe huilt, by his brothers, Messrs. John & Wm. Irwin. It was originaly constructed for the purpose of dressing flooring and other boards, and for many years has done a large business in that way. The former proprietors became the owners of Woodworth's patent this city, and, hy using the machinery patented fortunes. The present proprietor is continuing Order. the business, in a manner entirely satisfactory to himself and his patrons. He finds a ready sale for all the hailding materials he is able to prepare for the house joiners. He employs a moderate force of operatives, and does a very reaso table amount of business.

H. McClaren & Co., Clay, near Fulton street, have recently erected a handsome, well arranged, and spacious brick huilding for their husiness. They have the newest and most improved machine. ry, and are prepared to do all descriptions of work | tor at Frankfort show that in sixty-four counties ing the cabins of three "floating palaces" for the head. The same rate of increase in the $200,000. They also manufacture packing boxes of every kind, dress flooring-boards, and make doors, sash, blinds, and almost everything in the way of finished wood work for honse building Ther employ in their mill fifty-five hands. This does not include their out door force, engaged in working on boats, which is frequently more than louble that strength. They do not work on hous es, only preparing the work in their mill, and selling it to contractors or owners of huildings Their work seems perfectly systemized, and it pays well to visit and examine their establish

Henry L. Vanseggern, on Walnut street, be tween Clay and Shelhy streets, has a mill of con siderable capacity. His husiness is principally confined to the manufacturing of building materials, and putting up and finishing houses. He prepares and finishes flooring-boards, makes rames, sash, blinds, doors, mantles, hase, mouldings, &c. He either sells them to corpenters or persons huilding, or takes contracts for houses, and keeps a force employed, outside of bis mill on such work. He employs from one bundred to one hundred and ten hands, and his work during a year amounts to a large sum.

Alexander Ellis & Co. occupy and run the mill on Fulton street, where McClarn & Co. formerly did business, and also the adjoining building where Richard Smith carried on his block and pully business. They are engaged in manufacturing sash, doors, blinds, &c. In these branches of manufacturing, connected with the sale of lumber, they are doing considerable husiness. They have their office and sales room on Main street, between First and Second streets, where they keep a large stock of the different articles

Joseph Gault, on High street, below Twelfth street, has rebnilt his factory, which was burned about a yeur since. He employs a number of bands, and is engaged in facing and dressing flooring boards, and is also doing other descriptions of work in bis line. George Payne, on East street, south of Walnut, has a mill in which he employa a force of about ten hands, and is engaged principally in making sash, doors, blinds, frames, &c.

It is difficult to arrive at a satisfactory acconn of the amount of business done in a year by these mills. Some of them are engaged more or less in the lumber trade. Separating the two kinds of business as far as we are able to do, we think, from the mest reliable information we can obtain, that $300,000, as an approximated estimate, would not he much above or below the amount of the annual husiness of the six mills we have named in the city. Assuming the estimate to be about right, end adding to that sum the estimated business of the inmber yards and saw mills, we bave an aggregate of $1,150,000 for the different branches of the umber husiness of this city.

ARREST OF A MURDERER. -Pat Royan, who with P. Love and his wife mnrdered Pat. Coyle, about six weeks since, in the alley between Main and Water streets, was arrested yesterday about a mile below Jeffersonville. The parties who perpetrated the bloody deed made their escape at the time, and Royan has been in New Orleans. He arrived yesterday on the steamer John Raine, and anded at New Albany, and made his way thence to the house of his brother-in-law, where he was captured by Policemen Bligh and Bob Seay .-Royan admits that he bit Coyle with a brickbat, which crushed in his skull and killed him.

A German named Wever, was brutally assaulted in New Albany, on Tnesday evening, by Dave Collins, just out of the Jeffersonville penitentiary, Ryland Shuck, the young manaccused of stealing a package from Adams' Express, some time since, Bill Armstrong and A. Rose, all individuals of nnenviable notoriaty. They assaulted men and women indiscriminately. and so ontraged the people of the lower portion of the city that they rose in their might and arrested Collins, and made an effort to get the others. LOUISVILLE THEATER.-We have rarely seen such a succession of large audiences as the Ravels heve drawn to the Louisville theater in their present engagement. On Monday night the huilding was filled, and hundreds went away who could not obtain admission. Tuesday and last night there was also a large attendance. The troupe has been re-organized since it was last here, and its additions make it nurivalled in exart, has apparently lost none of his elasticity and vigor, and is now wonderful as he was twenty years ago. The evolutions on the corde tendue. hy Marietta Zanfretta, are daring and grand, and rivets the gaze of the beholder. She dances or the rope seemingly with ease, and certainly with grace. Her performance on the tight rope has never been equeled in this country.

The langhable comic pantomime, the "Magic Trumpet," with innumerable transformations tricks, and fire-works, will be performed to-night together with the admiral hallet "Le Diable A Quatre," in which Miss Francis will appear .-M'lle. Merietta Zanfretta will also execute her evolutions in the tight rope.

gratified to announce that the Directors of Woodand Race Course intend to devote one week to trotting horses this fall, the races to commence Monday, September 19th. Large accessions have neen made to this class of horses in Kentucky within a few years, and we have now within the oundaries of the State some of the fastest "goera" in the country. The programme, as published in another column, shows that liberal purses and stakes can he swept down by the first nag to the score. The stakes, it will be observed, close August 20th

RUNNING FROM THE WORKHOUSE. - Mr. G Holmes, the keeper of the workhouse, had some half dozen women of vagrant character to haul out to the workhouse yesterday, from the Police Court. Mary Hartley, one of the women, not relishing a visit to that retreat, jumped out as the vehicle was about to move on, and run down street, for liberty. Holmes pursued ber, and for man of his years, run well; but he wouldn't have caught her if she hadn't fell down. He was so close that he tumbled over ber, and they rolled together in the dust. The State could fill its coffers by jerking up these kind of offenders of the law. Men will back their opinions, albeit "a wager is the fool's argument."

KNIGHTS OF MALTA. - Victor Emannel Chapter of that mysterions Order, the Knights of Malta, was instituted in New Albany last night. The magnificent parapharnalis of Valetta Lodge, of this city, was used on the occasion, and a large numfor a territory of considerable extent, including ber of its members were present at the imposing ceremonies. The Lodge is named in honor of the Woodworth, accumulated very handsome King of Sardinia, who holds bigh rank in the > LOST HIS WATCH .- Mr. Bamberger, a merchant of this city, lost his watch on the mailboat yesterday. He left it in his state-room when he went out to perform the morning ablution, and when he returned his gold chronometer was gone. A sharp thief watched his movements, and profited thereby. Mr. B. will hardly keep time with that watch again.

VISITING CARDS .- Those who pretend to visit at all are aware that visiting cards are an absolute necessity. Many card writers have made Lonis ville a field of pecuniery profit, and some of them were adepts in the business. But none have acquired the same degree of perfection in writing as Mr. G. Dalrymple Brown, who is now at the Louisville Hotel. There is a finish and elegance about bis cards which cannot fail to satisfy the me fastidious. The woman was exces-sively nervous from drinking, which her counsel characterized as woman's sensibility. $100 fo

DENIS LONG,
Surviving partner of Roach & Long.
Louisville, Ky., July 7, 1859. We see by the scientific American, that a reuch engineer in Paris, Mr. Hippolite Charles ion, has invented and secured by patent, in France, an apparatus for conducting natural elec-tricity from the great laboratory of nature, and storing it up in magazines from which it may be conveyed to operate machinery, to illuminate atreets in cities, and for a variety of other purposes. His plan is to conduct the positive electricity of the atmosphere in billy regions, by rods designed for the purpose; in valleys, low and flat countries, he proposes to elevate conductors and receivers to the great altitude, by halloons connected with the earth by wires. The atmospheric conductors are to be connected by insulated wires with platea ex tending to a suitable depth in the earth; the in sulated reservoirs for atoring up the electric fluid are to be situated midway between them. These are to be strated into a because of the converged to any place desired, and to any attention, to effect the objects contemplated. As nature furnishes elec-tricity in ench exhaustless quantities, this inge-nious discoverer proposes to accomplish an object to which too great importance can hardly be at-tached. He proposes to use with his apparatus this magical agent for the rapid development of this magical agent for the rapid development of vegetation in gardens and fields.

If the great expense of producing electricity by the common means can he avoided—if the apparatns of M. Vion shall meet the public expecta tions in this respect, and enable our agriculturalists to bring this universal agent into general use at a small cost, bis discovery will entitle him to the lasting gratitude of mankind, and will configurate him to the lasting gratitude of mankind, and will configurate him with the lasting gratitude of mankind, and will configurate him with the lasting gratitude of mankind, and will configurate him with the lasting gratitude of mankind, and will configurate him with the lasting gratitude of mankind, and will configurate him with the lasting gratitude of mankind, and will configurate the last of the lasting gratitude of mankind, and will configurate the last of the last Senator Donglas' letter is not very favorably received by the Democracy of Maine. The Bangor Daily Union, a leading and influential journal of the party in that State, copies it, and seys: "Horace Greeley himself, with all his craft and ingenuity, could not have concocted a letter calculated to creste more mischlef in the Democratic ranks" It then adds: "No man knows better than Mr. Douglas that the Democratic party is opposed to the re-opening of the African slave trade; then why should be attempt to excite suspicions in the minds of the peeple, by intimating in a public letter that such an event is among the possibilities of the future? The Great Balloon Voyage — Narrative of John Wise, one of the Aeronauts.

Although it was intended to have started on this voyage on the 23d of June, we were delayed in our preparations until the 1st of July. By 6 o'clock, P. Although it was intended to have started on this voyage on the 23d of June, we were delayed in onr preparations until the 1st of July. By 6 o'clock, P. M., the air-ship "Atlantic" was daly inflated, and while we were putting her in trim with hallest and provisions, Mr. Brooks, lessee of the St. Lonis Museum, who had kindly volunteered to escort us over the Mississippi in his halloon "Comet," got ready for the occasion, and upon a signal agreed, ascended from the ground. At 7.20 P. M., the "Atlantic" was ready to sail. Messrs. LaMountain and Gager, thinking some difficulty might arise from the start if they should attach the fore-wheels to the shafts and wheel-gearing, determined to omit that until we should be fairly under way next morning. Having had much experience in hard winds, and the peuls of landing a balloon under them, we had constructed, at St. Louis, a good wicker-work car (which, went overboard last.

We now descried the shore, some forty miles ed, at St. Louis, a good wicker-work car (which, with a good and strong concentric hoop, are life-preservers in these perils,) which was snapended between the boat and halloon, and shout eight feet above the former and within aix feet of the hoop, so that the neck of the balloon hong in the heatest are whenever the halloon was talled. hasket-car whenever the balloon was fully dis

The boat contained 600 pounds of ballast, one bucket of water, one bucket of lemonade, with an ahundance of hread and wine, ponltry and sandwichea, besides delicacies, too numerous to enumerate, furnished by kind friends. Mr. LaMountain took command of the boat and hallast, and took his place on one end; Mr. Gager took the other end, and took charge of the charts and compass; Mr. Hyde, local editor of the St. Louis Republican, took his seat in the middle, with note-book and pencil, as historian. Although Mr. Hyde was not in the original programme, we unanimonsly agreed to let him accompany us, provided it would agreed to let him accompany us, provided it would not interfere with our ultimate design; and as it was arranged that, under any circumstances, when the ballast should fail, the boat with its contents should be disposed of, and myself or Mr.

aMountain should proceed the voyage alone.

The basket contained 350 pounds of hallast, a harometer, wet and dry bulb thermometer, he-sides a quantity of wine and provisions; and I took my place in the basket in charge of the valve ope, and as director of the general plan of the oyage, by the unanimous consent of the party mayaged in this long devised enterprise.

I must say here that Mr. La Mountain took in

I must say here that Mr. LaMountsin took in charge a part of the programme that none hut a cool head and a most accomplished aeronaut could he trusted with; and especially the night asiling. At 7 20 P. M., we set sail from the Washington Square at St. Louis, and our course at starting was north of east. When we got up and over the Mississippi, and well under way, we saw Mr. Brooks land in a clear place, ahout sunset.

At 8 30 P. M., the shades of the evening shut from our view the noble city of St. Louis and the from our view the noble city of St. Louis and the father of waters, though it continued light until after 9. Mr. LaMountain having suffered from sickness on Thursday, and was too unwell to work hard under a hurning sun at the inflation, left much hard labor for me at that work. I submitted the whole thing to his charge for the night mitted the whole thing to his charge for the night, with the understanding to have me waked whenever he wanted the vaive worked, and he took it with alacrity. Before I went to sleep we had mounted to a hight at which the halloon became completely distended, and where we found the current due east. Here it became chilly, and Mr. LaMountain, as well as all of us, suffered from this change of air; and with all the clothing we could put on us it was still uncomfortable, though the thermometer stood at 42, and the barometer at 23, and this was the lowest of both the instruments during the whole voyage, except the crossing of Lake Untario.

Mr. La Mountain proposed to take the lower current as long as it would take us hat a few points north of east, and I told him to do as he deemed best, and report his reckoning in the morning. After bidding the party in the boat a good night and God speed, I coiled myself up in blankets, and laid down as heat I could, and in a few minutes was sound asleen and knew of noth few minutes was sound asleep, and knew of nothing but repose until 11:30 P. M.

At this time Mr. La Mountain again mounted for the upper current; being desirous of making a little more easting, he hailed me to open the valve, as the balloon had hecome so tense, and the gas was rushing from the neck with a noise, but minding no answer from me, he suspected that I was being smothered in the gas, and he admonished Mr. Gager to mount to my car by a rope provided for that purpose, and Mr. Gager found me breathing apasmodically, but a good shaking, and the removal of the neck of the halloon from

The whole dome of heaven was lit in inclow phosphorescent light, the stars shone with a crystalline brilliancy, and the milky way looked like an illuminated stratum of cumulus clouds. Whenever we crossed water the heaven-So remarkable was this phosphorescent light of the atmosphere that the balloon looked trauslucent, and looked like light shining through oiled paper. We could also tell prairie from forest, and by keeping the eye for a moment down-ward, we could see the roads, fences, lields, and even houses quite distinctly at any elevation not over a mile, and even at the greatest elevation we could discern prairie from woodland, and distinct echo, and even this served as a differen-tial index to hight. We always found a re-sponse in numerous bow-wow-wows, and these were always indicative of the fullness and sparseness of the habitations below, as we could hear them for many miles around us. Mr. La Mountain remarked that nobody lived in that country but dogs, or else the people barked like dogs, he having got a little out of humor, hecause nohody would tell him in what State we were sailing, and he gave up the inquiry with the remark that it must be over some other country han America, as we had been moving along at apid pace.

At 8 A. M. Saturday we came to a general conclusion that we were somewhere over the State of Indiana or Ohio. At 4 A. M. we passed a city, but could not make it out, but at 5 A. M. we discovered Lake Erie ahead of us, and then concluded that the city we left a little south of our track must have been Fort Wayne. At 6 A. M. ve passed Toledo, and about an hour afterwards we lowered upon the margin of the lake a little north of Sandusky. After a few moments conultation, and a review of our ballast, we deter suitation, and a review of our balast, we deter-mined to risk the length of Lake Erie; and to test the notion that halloons cannot he kept up long over water, hecause of some peculiar affinity of the two, a notion that never had any belief with me. Just as we merged upon the lake, a little steam screw that was propelling npa river or hay, headed for our track, and some one aboard of her very quantity cried aloud to us, "That is the lake ahead of you." Mr. LaMountain cried back, "Is take Erie?" and the answer was "yes, it is, and you had hetter look out." Our good friend, the propeller, finding we discarded his kindness, and off again any advantage of the propeller. rounded off again, sounded us a good by with bis steam whistle, and went his way up the river. Here we mounted up until the balloon got full, and the harometer fell to 23, in order to make along near the southern abore of the lake, but at Mr. LaMountain's auggestion that we could make the city of Buffalo by sailing but a few hundred feet above the auriace of the water, I opened the valve until we gradually sank to within five hundred feet of the water. Here we found a gentle gale of about a speed of a mile per min-ute, and we resolved to float on it until we should heave in eight of Buffalo, and then rise and sail over it. This was a most interesting part of our voyage. We overtook seven ateamboats, passed mutual salutations, and would soon leave them flitting on the horizon in our rear. Une of these lonely travelers remarked as we passed, "You are going it like thunder!" At 20 minutes past 10 A. M., we were skirting along the Canada shore and passed near the mouth of the Welland canal, and soon began to mount for our more easterly current so as to take Buffalo in our track, but we circled up into it between Buffalo and Niagara Falls, crossing Grand Island, leaving Buffalo to the right and Lockport to the left of us in our onward course. Finding ourselves in the State of New York, but too fer North to make the city of New York, it was agreed that we should make a landing near Roebester, detach the boat, leave ont Mr. Gager and Mr. Hyde, and Mr. La-Monntain and myself pursue the voyage to a point at Boaton on Portland. Accordingly we de-scended gradually, but hefore we got within thousand feet of the earth we found a most terrific gale sweeping along helow. The woods roared like a bost of Niagaras, the surface of the earth was filled with clouds of dust, and I to d my friends certain destruction awaited us if we should tonch the earth la that tornado. The huge 'Atlantic" was making a terrific swoop earthward; already were we neer the tops of the trees of a tall forest, and I cried out excitedly, "for God'a sake heave over everthing you can lay your hands on, La Mountain!" and in another mo he responded, "all right," standing on the side of the boat with a sheft and wheels, intended for the working of the fan wheels, and ready to heave it over should it become necessary. Mr. Hyde looked np to my car, and very solemn-ly said: "This is an exciting time, Professor.— What aball we do?" "Trust to Providence and all our energies," said L. We were fast running on to Lake Ontario, and O! how ternihly it was foaming, moaning, and howing. I said, "La-Mountain, I have 160 pennde of ballast in my car yet, and a heavy value, an express beg, (sent to the United States Express Company's office in Broadway. New York, and a lot of provisiona." Broadway, New York,) and a lot of provisions."

"Well, if that won't do, I will cut up the boat for ballast, and we can keep above weter nntil we reach the opposite sbore," which was near a hundred miles off in the direction we were then go-

LaMountain stuck to the boat like a hero, but lost his hat, and got a dash of the waves, but soon recovered, and threw over the express hag and the last remaining ballast, and cried ont, "Be easy gentlemen, I'll have her affuat once more."

In another moment we were up a few hundred feet again, and the steamer propeller "Young America" was tacking across our track. I now proposed to swamp the boat and balloon in the lake, and trust to being picked up by the Young America, but the desire was that we should make the shore and try the land, and as we crossed the the shore and try the land, and as we crossed the how of the steamer they gave us a hearty hurrah. LaMountain had now cut out of the boat all he could, and we were within fifteen miles of the shore, the gale still raging helow. LaMountain might have remained in the boat helow, and jumped out at the first touching the earth, and I of the gale, but he said he would share our fate, and he also clambered into the hasket, just as we were reaching the land.

I saw hy the swaying to and fro of the lofty trees into which we must inevitably dash, that our worst perils were at hand, but I still hed a blind hope that we would be saved. I ordered two men on the valve rope, and we struck within a hundred yards of the water, among some scattered trees, our book, which was of inch and a quarter iron, breaking like a pipe stem, at the first estch of it in the trees, and we hurling through the tree tops at a terrific rate. After dashing along in this way for nearly a mile, crashing and breaking down trees, we were dashed most fearpreaking down trees, we were dashed most fear-ully into the houghs of a tall elm, so that the fully into the houghs of a tail cim, so that the hasket swung nnder and np through the crotch of the limb, while the boat had caught in some of the outer branches, and this brought us to a little, but in another moment the "Atlantic" puffed up have branches and at one aways aways. ber huge proportions, and at one swoop away went the limb, hasket, and boat, into the air a hundred feet, and I was afraid some of the crew were impaled upon the scrags. This limb, about eight inches thick at the hutt and full of branchright inches thick at the hutt and rull of branchis, not weighing less than six or eight hundred pounds, proved too much for the "Atlantic," and it hrought her suddenly down upon the top of a very tall tree and collapsed her. Notes from the Austrian Camp. Travelers who reach Tnrin from Mantna, report that the condition of the Austrian troops who reached the latter place after the hattle of Magena is pitiable. They are mainly destitute of arms or cloaks; one body composed of fragments of all egiments, heing in the utmost distress and destitution. Vienna Journals learn, moreover, that Colone

Kuhn, Chief of Gyulai's staff, has addressed a mepoir to the Emperor to acquaint him with several nstances in which the commander had not execu ed, or had evaded the instructions sent him. It ollows from this memoir that the defeat of the Anstrians ought to be solely attributed to the obtinacy and incapacity of Gyulai.

Vienna papers also say that the grief caused by the disasters of Magenta and Malegnano have, in a few days, turned the hair of General Knhn and General Benedek perfectly white. The correspondent of the Times at the Anstrian

THE ADVANCE OF THE ALLIES.

CASSANO, on the Banks of the Adds, June 12. Another promenade militairs has brought us ver the Adda. Although the Austraus have acceeded this time better than before, in destroyover the Adda. Although the Austrians have succeeded this time hetter than before, in destroying the bridges over the river, not only at Lodi, but likewise at this place and Vaprio, this measure has, as yon see, not very much retarded the progress of the allies. Provided as they are with a numerous pontoon train, calculated especially for this country, with its numerons rivers and canals intersecting the road, a few hours were sufficient to re-establish the means of communication. As for defending the banks of the Adda, the Austrians could scarcely think of it, except in a very desperate case. The reason of this is aimple enough. The right, or Lomhard bank of the river, commands the opposite bank almost all along its course. A creat or platean of from 40 to 100 feet in hight skirts the right hank, now approaching the river quite close, and now receding a little distance from it. The other side, on the contrary, is an uninterrupted plain, which the ever can fuller already to the state of the contrary, is an uninterrupted plain, which on the contrary, is an uninterrupted plain, which the eye can follow almost to the banks of the next tributary of the Adda and Po—the Serio. t is something like that of San Martino and It is something like that of San Martino and Turhigo on the Ticino, with the difference, however, that there is no canal and corresponding elevation on the opposite hank. There is indeed, a canal alongside this river, which fertilizes the district of Lodi, but it is on this side of it, and at this point so close to it that it looks more like a little branch than a separate stream, only a narrow bank intervening between the two.

The Adda is the last line of defense which exists up to the Mincio; there are, indeed, here and there positions which possess a certain strength, but they are isolated points only, where the detender may offer a battle under favorable conditions, if he be so inclined. All the different roads which come from north-west and south, after passing the from north-west and south, after passing the Adda, unite in two main roads, one in the north by Brescia to Verona, and the other by Pizzighettone and Cremona toward Mantna. These two roads, or one of them, at any rate, must always he the line of operations for an army marching to the east, but there are so many hy-roads and crossroads connecting the two, that for an army used to forced marches, nothing is easier than to deceive the enemy on the object of its operations. The more one approaches the Mincio the easier this hecomes, for the two main roads converge.

Whether the Austrians will receive us in the famous Rectangle of Fortresses, or will meet us on the road, remains to be seen. on the road, remains to be seen. We know that they have received great reinforcements, and likewise that others are still on the road; it will probably depend on whether they are able to hring them np in time. On the other hand, the Allies have likewise taken their measures to oppose to these efforts on the part of the enemy, others on their side.

Whatever one may say about the rapidity with which the French appeared on the scene of action in Italy, France was not prepared for the war; the regiments which had to leave in hot haste were on a peace footing, except those which came from Algeria. They had scarcely more than one-half of their strength, the rest being on what is called cange renguelable—that is, after serving three or four years, the men are allowed to go on furlangh which is renewed at abort periods, un-Whatever one may say about the rapidity with furlongh, which is renewed at short periods, un-til they have served their time. It is only since the war has begnn that these men have been called in, and most of them have by this time arrived. Their number alone will add quite a third to the forces, and then it must be remembered that these are not recruits, but seasoned soldiers, most of them dating from the Crimean cam-

Thus both parties are preparing with equal vigor for the great occasion. In the meantime, until it happens, the Ailed armies, at any rate, have an agreeable time of it in this fertile and beautiful Lombard plain, through which they are marching. It is like an agreeable promenade in a park. Although the country between Milan and the Adda is similar to that further west, yet the richness of the vegetation, combined with the perfection of cultivation, gives if an entirely different character. ferent character.

RETREAT OF THE AUSTRIANS. [Correspondence of the London Times.] Sonasina, June 10 .- Nearly all the wounded Austrians are to day in safety hehind the Mincio none but utterly hopeless cases baving been leit behind. Poor fellows, they have had a dreadful week of it. In excellent health and on horseback there found the sun and dust (the latter especially) almost insupportable. What must some of them have suffered, dragged along ten or twelve hours a day on the springless ox-carts of the country? The ambulance wagons are numerous with this arms. ous with this army, much more so than is usua with any other European army, but they still fall far short of the exigencies of such a retreat as

The heavy baggage is two days' merch behind ns - that is to say, two days' march pear the Min-cio-so that the roads are now uncumbered, but at first a total jam seemed inevitable. This will not surprise you when you consider that this army, with its trains of artillery, pontoons, baggage, &c, cannot occupy less than one hundred and twenty miles of road. The day we left Abblate Grasso it took me three hours to reach Castelletto, a village only two miles off, even on horsehack, I having missed the opportunity of riding with the General, owing to a Croat having given over the British Commissioner, Capt. Mildmay, to the hands of the Provost-Martial on suspicion of being a Piedmonte. He was libera-ted after some little trouble, but at headquarters they positively forbade him to run the risk of iding back through the town to call for me, as had heen agreed, so he sent a messenger, who arrived about an hour afterwards, telling me where to join him. Pavia, to Belgiojoso; this journey of under twenty miles, requiring 11 hours, so crowded were the roads, although the finest and broadest in Europe. Had the French been in a condition to ow, confusion must have ensued. did not follow, proves beyond the possibility of a doubt, that they nuderstate their loss at the hattle of Magenta, if it he true, as the telegraph announces, that they pretend only to have had 2,500 killed there. If their loss was so trifling, why did they pause four days? On Wednesday, the Sth, their advanced guard first came on the Austrian rear guard, Gen. Boer's brigade, near Melagnano. In the fight which enaued, Gen. Boer was killed, but the next day, yesterday, Benedek moved out from Lodi, and drove the French heyond the Lambro, whence they did not return to molest, as they might have done, the corps which to day crossed the Adds. The head-quarters remained two days at Codogno, whence they proceeded yesterday to Cavati gozzi, on the road to Mantus, and here to-day to be in the center of the army. The army has retreated in three main columns, the first, second and third corps, and part of the seventh in the center, protected by the rest of the seventh and the eighth on the right flank, and by the fifth, joined at Codogno by the ninth, on the left flank. Urban bolds Treviglio and Bergamo on the extreme right. The sixth corps is at Verons, the eleventh at Mantna; so the army is approaching its resources. By this evening the whole will be ecross the Adda—the eighth and part of the seventh corps by Lodi, where there was a wooden bridge, which is probably hirnt at the time I write. Pontoon bridges were thrown across at Vinzasca and Formigana for other corps. and the fifth and ninth and the garrisons of Pia-cenza and Pavia across at the fortress of Pizzi-The two former places are already de stroyed and ahandoned; the last named and Lodi will be demoliahed to-morrow, or perheps the next day. How they can bave made up their minds to destroy the result of so much skill and labor I know not. It must strike all who have watched be events of the last few weeks attentively that the Austran councils. There was the resolve to act entirely on the defensive, then the threat to overrun Piedmont after three days; then that was not carried out at the request of England; then a defensive position was taken in the Lomellina, and shandoned almost without defense; then the troops crossed the Ticino so scattered that it must have been intened either to march straight back. troops crossed the Ticino so scattered that it must have been intened either to march straight hack to the Mincio, or else to try some comp de main on the left; the next day hattle was accepted, and the vicinity ahandoned the day after, when nothing was requisite to seenre it hut remain quiet; then came the retreat; then the day before yesterday Pavia was re-occupied, and Benedek turned so fiercely on the Frenchman that his ontposts ran no risk of being disturbed for some time to come; then yesterday the backward movement was reaumed, and to day bere is the army on the east of the Adds. I suppose you look for some explanation of all this—but I can only guess what is wrong, so I will not risk being unjust hy telling you what I guess, but will mention some feets which will enable you to judge for yourself. Now, whether this retreat is a masterly movement or a most weak one, I think it will be nufair ment or a most weak one, I think it will be unfair, considering these coincidences, to give all the praise or all the hame to Count Gyulai. Ofcourse, the whole army is furious; the Lascers have term the flags from their lances; the Jagars bave thrown aside the flowers they always carry in their hate during the war. Indiscreet officers gave yent to their feelings in words; the more discreet will their monaches by the flower tegether has

Three fourths of this army, then, even of the artillery men, are men of less than two years' service. To such men men of less than two years' service. To such men the warfare of this country must be most trying. The trees are so numerous that they never see their enemy till within a couple of hundred yards, and thay never see their own supports. That an army so composed can have fought on equal terms for ten hours with a superior force of picked french troops, proves that with good management during this sampaign, the mea can be dement during this sampaign, the mea can be de-pended on next year to do anything which sol-diers have ever done.

NUMBER 5.

BY THE BAVARIA. THE GERMAN STATES-TROOPS TO BE STATIONED ON

Advices from Frankfort state, says the London Times of June 18, in its city article, that the German Confederation are understood to have resolved that 80,000 men (40,000 Prussian and 40,000 Anstran) shall be stationed on the Rhine. It is also asserted that an arrangement has been read-Anstrum) shall be stationed on the Rhine. It is also asserted that an arrangement has been made for such Anstrian troops as are now engaged on garrison duty in the federal fortresses to be relieved by other German treops, so that they may he set free for active operations in Italy or elsewhere. There were likewise stron, rumors that Prussia will issue some decisive announcement in the course of a few days. According to a prevalent conjecture, peace is to be proposed to the Emperor Napoleon on certain conditions, and if they are refused Germany is to enter the war. Under these circumstances there is great anxiety and stagnetion in all the commercial cities, but it is added that the want of employment for money causes numerous investments in stocks, and prices are, therefore, well maintained. With the existing rate of expenditure, however, this feature is soon likely to cease. The total number of men to be called out in Prussia by the recent decree for the mobilization of eight army corps will, it is asid, he 240,000.

[Correspondence of the London Times.] THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE ALLIED ARMIES.
MILAN, June 12.—Decidedly there is to be no ew edition of the famous attack on the bridge odi. The Austriane, wiser than their fact that ers, or perhaps made wiser by their own experience at the Ponte di Magenta, have taken the precaution of destroying the bridge. Well, where there is no bridge, no bridge can be taken. Had this been done to General konaparte, as was intended, in 1796, it would have been a great inconvenience to him, for it would have delayed his following on the heals of the retreating to the control of the con venience to him, for it would have delayed his following on the heels of the retreating Austrian army. As for us "Nous nous on moquons." The orcumstances are widely different.

The passage of the Adda might have offered some difficulties to the army of the French Republic, which was scarcely so large as one of our corps d'armes, hut it is no obstacle worth mentioning for an army like that of the Allies; and then we have not the same interest to press back the enemy's forces as General Bonsparte had. In his time, the Austrians had, militarily speaking, little or no hold in Upper Italy. Once or twice hesten in the open field, they had to make the best of their way to the Tyrol and Carinthia, all they could do was to leave a few thousand men in Mantua, and the war was easied until they could collect in the mountains fresh forces, and attempt collect in the mountains fresh forces, and attempt to regain the lost ground. Now this is all change ed. The Austrians have in the heart of Upper Italy a kind of Sebastopol, connected with the rest of the empire, not by long, inhospitable steppes, hnt hy excellent roads, and in many parts even by railways.

Austria can thus even better them.

Austria can thus, even better than Russia, con-Austria can thus, even better than Russia, concentrate all her forces at this extremity, which has been prepared for the purpose by the work of years and the expenditure of millions. Any pressure on her retreating army would only bring it nearer to its stronghold, from which it ought never to have came out; and no pressure would be sufficient to get into the stronghold together with the retreating army. In one word, General Bonaparte ended his campaign at the Mincio; we have to begin there the second and more serious phase of it. It is well known that the Austrianare preparing on a grand scale for this decisive are preparing on a grand scale for this decisive phase in the Italian campaign. They have changed their commander, who has contrived to lose at least 50,000 or 80,000 men in less than a week.

The King left last night, the Emperor this campaign is about to morning—a sign that the campaign is about to begin again. The sooner the hetter. The distances are so small that we may hope to be in due time to take advantage of the demoralizing effect of the first blows, and anticipate the rein-forcements expected by the Austrians from the

Milan, to him who saw it during the presence xhausted the vital power of the city ar The communications, which had been interrupted by the war, are being gradually re-established. The railway from this to Come, has already begun to run; that to Magenta will be very likely opened to the public as soon as it is no more required for the army. When this is done, there ill he, with the exception of the little distance om Magenta to the station of San Martino, an nninterrupted railway communication to Turns and France. What an advantage for reinforce-

ed away the locomotives and most of the car riages, but the deficiency will be supplied as we advance; as for damaging the line itself, they could do little, except here and there a bridge which can be restored in a very short time.

The new Governor of Lombardy scarcely appears in the foreground, so quietly and smoothly des the organization of the country go on. As you saw from the decree which I sent you yester-day, as little as possible has been changed, the object being not to devise the best possible gov-ernment, hut one that abould he ready for the emergency. All that has been done, therefore, is to remove all the foreigners whom the Austrian Government employed in the public offices, and to concentrate in the hands of responsible persons with considerable power, instead of the collective body which had been such a nuisance in the late Austrian Administration.

In the financial organization of the country the same system has been followed as in the political

Lombardy will be governed for the present by the same forms which have existed hitherto; the Lombards will have to pay the same taxes, and you will see the strange spectacle that what was insupportable under the Austrian rule will be and already cheerfully submitted to nuder a seli chosen Government. Every one thinks it natural, and, should there be greater sacrifices, they will bear them equally well. Here lies the Italian question, turn it as you like. Let the for-eigner, like Jerome Patnrot, go and search after the best, not of republics, but of governments, he has been under the spirit-killing bureaucratic aystem which has been kept up hitherto in Lomhardy. It is a matter of feeling, or call it matinct— animal instinct, if you like—but so it is. As the gray and red partridges will not dwell together, it is with some races, and more especially with the German and Italian. Nothing can ever con-ciliate them. As the two cannot dwell together, and neither will yield, they must fight for it. The procluma-tions of both the Emperor and the King say clearly enough that the thing is not done yet, and that the Italians must help themselves as far as they can. The appeal has not been in vain, for within the last two days above 4,000 volunteers have enlisted from this town alone. The display of military splendor during the presence of the Allied Sovereigns bas, no donth, contributed to attract the venth, but even without it there would have the youth, but even without it there would have been a fair contingent. A proof in this respect is the success of Garibaldi, who, in spite of what he bad to pass through, and in spite of the little at traction which a small body of men, with great coats for nuiforms, and often scanty fare present-ed, still contrived to recruit largely on the road. It is on the peasantry in the North and the cities, both in the mountains and in the plains, on which they chiefly reckon for co-operation.

COL. THOS. H. HOLT, of Louisville. LOUISVILLE:

THURSDAYJULY 7, 1859. Reading Matter on Every Page.

Holt, Mallory and the Journal.

The Journal of Monday replies at great length to our vindication of Col. Holt. We are perfectly willing to concede that it does not intentionally faistfy Col. Holt, but as it misstates his positions, we must attribute it to the haste and imperfection of the notes of its reporter. He ought to confine himself to reporting Mr. Mallory, in whose speeches he could find the sterreotyped sentiments in which he indulges. We should thick Col Holt might pick up a vast deal of useful knowledge from a cunvass with Mr. Mallory, as the Journal suggests; just as the French armies are trained in Algeria by driving the Araba from their positions, smashing up their scattering cavalry, and atterly ronting their auxiliaries. The Journal admits Col. Holt to he far above the Democratic average, which to the people of Kentucky is an admission that he can look complacently down on the champions of the demolished Sam. The Journal sets itself up for the champion of the Hon. Tom. Corwin, and says Col. Holt used a garbled and perverted report of Mr. Corwin's

Here the Journal is again in error with its notes. Col Holt used the words which Corwin's friends attribute to him, namely: "That if he were a Mexican he would welcome the Americans with bloody hands and hospitable graves." Cor. win is a great pet of the Journal, and yet neither Col. Holt nor any other Southers man need resort to innendo or hint in placing him with the Black Republicans. Who did he vote for in 1856? Was it not John C. Fremont? As to his other great favorite, John Bell, as he couples him in his eulogy with Corwin, it is needless to advert to him against the South, may be an insult to the Jonrnal, but it is not so to Josh Bell, who is for the Lecompton Constitution.

speech on the Mexican war.

We cannot but smile at the sneers of the Journal at Col. Holt's imaginative powers. Let it reflect a moment on its own vivid fancy, which ikins," and charges the Democracy with the sins who never became powerful except by deserting to the Freesoil and Know Nothing ranks. We ask the plain question, does not Wilson, of Massachusetts, occupy precisely the same ground as chasetts, occupy precisely the same ground as the Journal on the question of naturalization? On hill to relieve poor at Wash Did he not anticipate the Journal in going into the American movement, and was he not elected

On $40,000 printing Kausus into the U. S. Senate by "American" votes? Even $200,000 appropriating Des Moines Rapids over l'esident's day, that paper attempts to forst him off upon the Democracy. Was it not to Wilson, and Banks, day, that paper attempts to forst him off upon the and Gardner, and Hale, and Seward, the editor appealed, when he invoked men of all parties and Hulcage.... unite in opposition to Democracy without sacrifice of principle on the part of any? By what right does he charge the sins of Wilmot, for instance, upon the Democracy, when he has heen publicly repudiated and kicked out of that party, and taken up, careased, and elected to office by the editor's immaculate "Opposition?" It is true that Martin Van Buren deserted the Democratic party, and that thousands of Whigs and Democrats fell into his heresy; but Van Buren himself, after having been President of these United States, could not look trea son and disnnion so full in the face, as to tread the downward road pointed out by the leaders of the Opposition. He recoiled, and if at this moment he votes with the Democracy, it is as a chastised and penitent man; and not as the leadchastised and penitent mas; and not as the leaders of a so called "Opposition," with battalions at his back, and with a treasonable flag flying over him There is no "Van Buren wing of the Democratic party " The Democracy, unlike the "Opposition," has no wings. It does not attempt to fly, but it stands a solid phalanx as unshaken as a rock in defense of the Constitution and the Union. We could show him an example in the Democratic party, which he says planned the destruction of the compromise measures of 1850, of s man who offered himself as a voluntary sacrifice in behalf of that great and just measure, the Kansas Nehraska bill, which carried out the compromise measures of 1850. We mean the Hon. Isaac Toncey, the present Secretary of the Navy. When certain friends of that measure offered to delay the passage of the bill for a few weeks until after the Connecticut election, on which depended his re-election to the U S. Senate, he responded with Roman patriotism: 'For forty years I have openly fought Abolitionism. I can by the passage of this bill strike it a deadly blow. It is true, that the sudden outcry in Connecticut will overwh. Im me. But delay not a moment on that account. Press forward this measure, and I will record my vote for it. It is honorable to fall for my country." The bill passed, and this old patriot was beaten by the combined forces of Abolitionism and Know Nothingism-of the "Opposition." Of such men was composed the gallant Democracy of the North, on whose overthrow the Know Nothing party built up the fortunes of the present gang of fanatics who represent the North. The hrutal Wilson and the whimpering Sumner are the "American" Senators who fill the places once occupied by Webster and Everett. Everett supplanted by Wilson the "American!" It is true that the great object of Col. Holt's speech was intended to prove that there were only two great parties in this country, the Democratic and the Abelltionist,-a proposition so plain that we hardly think the Journal will attempt to deny it. It may be that he, also, maintained that every Southern man who sought to overthrow the Democracy, "was, by implication, the ally of Northern fanaticism." And this is most clearly true. Wherever in the North, a Democrat, loyal to the rights of the Sonth, is overthrown, a foulmouthed Abolitionist is put in his place by the Opposition. Even in the South, when the accalled Opposition return their ablest men, we flud them mingling the fraternal tear with Giddings, or using their sagacity to hetray interest, without alarming the fears of the Sonth.

The Journal and its critics hold the singular doctrine that they may arraign another as a culprit for what they approve as individuals. By what right do they put questions which they o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Orend, corner of Saverness and Market atreets. His friends are invited to at themselves fear to answer? Who appointed the enth and Market streets. His friends are invited to at Journal public prosecutor? We say unto it as the other animals replied to the frog, who pretended to be able to cure blotches on the akin, "Physician! heal thyself." This acute critic attacks Col. Holt for voting for the ratification of the constitution of California, but dodges the pertinent question whether he, too, would not have voted for such ratification on the ground that he is not a candidate for Congress. This is very true, and with the principles he holds be will A NEW STYLE. PRICE $50. never be apt to be a successful one so far South. But he sets up to be a public proseculor, and carrice around "indictments" in his pocket, and by these he must expect to be tried. It will do better and cheaper sewing than a seamstrees can, even if she works for one cont on hour er, high pricet, judge, and prophet, be willing to submit to the tests he imposes? In conclusion, we are happy to disclaim any ntention of discourtesy towards the critic or reporter of Col. Holt's speech. We are aware of have to call at Martin and Penton's, 96 Fourth he latitude of construction which is claimed in his partizan warfare, and can, moreover, readily attribute to the baste of reporting, what we called missta ements-certainly in no personally offensive sense, and which, at least, we are bound to characterize as misinterpretations. We advise him, however, to follow these candidates around, and be present at each contest. Col. Mallory, from his familiarity with the "tournaments" at Fourth street, have these goods, and invite purthe Virginia Springs, among the cudets of the chasers. first families, can appreciate the illustration, when we tell him that in every joust and tilt, he will need some doughty squire like his friend, the reporter of the Journal, to lift his bleeding form on the point of a gall-tipped pen from the dust of the arena, and after the first Monday in Angust, when he performs his obsequies, to drop the briny tear over the remains of what was once an Opposition candidate. Then he can throw himself across that political grave, where Mallory will repose in the arms of Sam, and over him spout alone his watery woe. Plundering Schemes of the Opposition. A correspondent of the Clarksville (Teun.) Jeffersonian has carefully prepared a table showing how many Democrats and how many Oppositionists in the Thirty-fourth and Thirty fifth Congresses voted for and against certain schemes concocted to plunder the Government of its lands and rob the National Treasury of its gold. RHEUMATISM .- Vast numbers who have long suffered from this afflicting disease, have been cured, and many others are now being cured by Dr. Mortimore's remedy. It would seem that the Doctor's own long affliction with this disease, led to a most valuable discovery in this remedy, with which he not only cured himself, but has cured many thousands of others, many of whom had long been helpless cripples. Dr. Mortimore's office is on Third street, this city, to which many resort for relief, not only our own citizens, but from abroad, some from a long distance, while he treats many at a distance by correspondence.

We learn that our young friend A. C. Seaton. who has for a number of years been head sales. man in the popular and extensive clothing house of J. M. Armstrong, Main street, has taken an agency and opened a house in Indianapolis, for the sale of this valuable remedy. We predict for him a large business, in time, in that growing city, and his mission a blessing to those who are afflicted, and he bears with him the hest wishes of many warm friends, for abundant success.

FRENCH TROPICAL Fever and Ague MIXTURE!

A certain Cure for Fever and Ague, Remittent and Intermittent Fever, and all Billious Complaints.

all Billious Complaints.

It is a well known fact that the different fevers and billious complaints are caused by the poisonous clasma and exhainlons from the surface of the earth, which are taken into the system by respiration. To neutralise this subtleptoison and counteract its effect upon the system, is therefore what we have to aim at, and with this view the "French Tropical Fever and Ague Mixture" has been preparel.

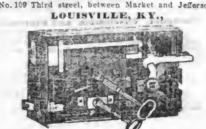

The high reputation which this medicine has gained within so short a time in the South and West where it has been introduced, is a sufficient proof for its superiority above all other compounds of the same kind.

As an antidote to maiaria, this medicine stands unrivailed, and so it is purely vegetable, it can be safely given to children and delicate patients, not only in case of fever, but in all cases where a good tonic is required. The French Tropical Fever and Ague Mixture is prepared by is. LaPLACE, Chemist and Druggist, New Orleans, and sold by all respectable druggists thr uphout this city. NO HUMBUG.

extremely dull. The markets for Breadstuffs and Pro-visions have been without any animation, and the sales at $9 85a5 75. It is now ascertained that the Wheat 50 and $6 50. crop of the United States is not only a large ons, but that the quality of the grain is perhaps superior to that of any crop grown for twenty years. The conse quence is that Wheat has declined from the high prices prevalent sixty days since to about $1 % bushel, at which rate the market may be quoted dnil. The millers and desters show no disposition to parchase largely, unless prices are further reduced, and farmers who are willing to sell at $1 do not like to come below that figure. The prospects of the Corn, Hsy, and Potatoe crops are favorable to a large yield, and although the farmers will doubtless be able to sell their surplus at good paying prices, there is no probability that meshanics, operatives and laborers will be compelled to pay famine prices for Provisions and Breadstuffs for their families.

The trads in Provisions, like that in Breadstuffs, has Pound Freights .. been duli, and for some articles lower prices bave been accepted, even for mers retall lots. There seems to be not the slighest disposition, in any quarter, to speculate in Provisions, and the demand for export in the sea board markets is but meagre. Mess Pork, in New York, has been sold as low as $15 87, and is quoted nominal, in Cincinnsti, at $15 75. We still retain our quotation of $16 % bbl as the value in this market, the limited avies made during the past week having been at that price. We refer to our table for the present asking rates for the different articles under this head.

The receipts and sales of Tobacco have been small. with a preponderance of quantity in the lower and inferlor qualities. There is no special change to notice In the prices paid during the past week. The Monthly Circular of Mesers. Robert L. Maitland

& Co., reports the New York Tobacco market inactiva, with a stock of 10,515 hhds, of all desdriptions, in the warehouses, being an eccess of more than 1,600 hbds over the stock on the 1st July, 1858. The sales of the at $1 75 to $2 50. Receipts -- head. month of June were only 400 hhds. They state that prices are nominal, as follows:

.... 8a10 & 12 . 5%a12 The stocks in the New York, Baltimore, New Orleans, London, Liverpool and Bremen markels are stated, at atest dates, to amount to 88,281 hhds, against 80,880 in 1958, 58.821 in 1857, and 46.577 bbds in 1856

The large semi annual settlements usually made durleg the early days of July have had their accustomed effect on commercial and money matters; and there bas been more stringency in the money market the past week than has been felt at any time during the last haif year. It has been more difficult to obtain discounts, exce t for favorite signatures, and there has been more fair commercial paper offering on the street than usual. Still, as a general rule, all payments of any importance have been promptly met, and the opinion is freely expressed in well informed@commercial and financial ircles that the manufacturing and business interests of Louisville were never on a more sound and substantial basis than they are at the present time.
